Home Depot Tiny House Walk Through Shed to House Conversion #tinyhouse

Somebody would argue that you cannot live in a shed due to codes. We have people living in cars and vans. We have people living in tents, so for someone that wants to dictate housing rules, that person needs to provide a solution in lieu of saying where you can't live. They call it a shed, but you could call it a tiny house. I think one of the best enhancements would be a split AC unit. I have a few videos on split AC, and I can add link below real soon. With a split AC, you can do about 95% of the work yourself. You would need an electrician for the main wire. Your AC bill would be about $20 a month max. It is unfinished, so you could add sheetrock and flooring as you see fit. Keep in mind plumbing needs! I think 2 people could live in it. I would recommend Hardi Plank for its long life and it does not rot. Hardi Plank cost more but it would last many years. #tinyhouse
