How Much House Can You Afford On A 100k Salary

Ah, the coveted $100,000/yr income. A six-figure salary is often claimed to be the pinnacle income goal for most. So, how much how exactly can you afford when making $100,000 per year? ✓ Talk With A Helpful Loan Officer Anywhere in the US

winthehouseyoulove.com/max-purchase-price-calculator ✓ Step-By-Step Home Buying Timeline:

Rates: winthehouseyoulove.com/todays-rates As with most things in the real estate world, it depends. But, let's break it down with some examples... First, we need to start with the monthly payment. The monthly payment is a huge factor in considering how much you can afford, no matter you income level. This is because your monthly payment and your debt-to-income ratio (DTI) go hand-in-hand with lenders making sure you have the ability to repay your mortgage. A good rule of thumb is having a max DTI of 43%. Your max DTI might be higher or lower depending on the lender and type of loan program, but 43% is going to be a solid middle ground for us to consider. Let's also put a cap on the housing payment of 28% on the mortgage payment.

So, here's how we calculate this: Step 1: Find gross income. Everything is going to be based off of gross income. That is income before taxes. So, in this scenario that is $8,333. Step 2: Find your max DTI. Our max DTI is $3,583. That means our monthly mortgage payment + monthly minimum debt payments cannot exceed this amount. Step 3: Figure out monthly debt payments.

Find the total off all your monthly minimum debt payments (e.g. auto loans, credit cards, student loans, installment loans, lines of credit, etc.). Let's say you have a $400/mo auto loan and a $250/mo credit card for a total of $650/mo. Step 4: Subtract your monthly minimum debt payments from your max DTI. ($$3,583 - $650 = $2,933$.) This is the max housing payment you can have! Now that we have our max housing payment, what's included in that? A housing payment is your Principal + Interest +

Homeowner's/Flood Insurance + Taxes + Homeowner's Association Dues. Now that we know our max housing payment, we need to figure out what kind of down payment we want to put on the house. Usually, a solid number is 10%. You might qualify to put down less, or you might choose to put down more, but 10% is a solid middle ground. This is where you'll have to do a bit of guessing to get the math close. Since you don't know the max purchase price yet, take an estimate. The calculator below is a great way to play around with these numbers to figure out how much house you can afford on a $100,000 salary.

smartasset.com/mortgage/how-much-house-can-i-afford#IFnmHvSxWD All in all, figuring out how much you can afford on a specific income is first going to be about your monthly payment. This is a great way to also see the max housing payment you're willing to allow in your budget. The hardest part to figure out is the home purchase price that correlates to that max monthly payment. And this is because so many factors will change (i.e. your down payment, taxes, insurance, homeowner's association fees, etc). So, play around with the numbers to figure out your max purchase price with a set income of $100,000, or the income figure that you make. California vs Texas: Salaries and Taxes (2020)

California vs Texas in Salaries and Taxes. While California has one of the highest state income taxes in the whole nation, Texas has no state income tax. Before making any conclusions, we need to remember that Texas has a Federal minimum wage, while California is about to hit $15/hr in the next few years. Also there is a huge difference in property prices and price of a gallon of gas. Watch the video to see detailed comparison. ----- 🎵Music By🎵 Videos: epidemicsound.com/referral/cr8cqg/ ► Instagram: instagram.com/andreijikh/ ► MAJIKH.com Ever wonder how to save money fast, and how much you should have at your age? In this video, I explain some basics on investing for beginners, how much money I have, how to properly pay off debt, and how much to have in savings by retirement age. Financial independence doesn't happen on it's own, it takes decades of saving and investing. For me, I need $500,000 saved and invested (in something like dividend paying stocks) at 4% to generate roughly $20,000 in passive income per year to be considered financially independent or retired. These are some money saving tips to stick to moving in to 2020. Pay off your debts, and let's start saving money! *Links above include affiliate commission or referrals. How much to withhold from your paycheck Money Monday!

Oh man I get this one all the time. In fact th W-4 tips is one of our most viewed videos. Now we're not accountants but we sure like to help our clients and viewers where we can and tax positioning is always a common topic. The new tax law may have caused you to see a bump in your paycheck. As of February 15th your employer is required to start using the new tax withholding tables. The IRS is concerned that Americans wont have the correct amount taken from their paychecks, thus causing an over payment or huge tax bill at the end of the year. To combat this the IRS has posted a new calculator that allows you to estimate how much you should have withheld from your paycheck. It will ask you to estimate your income, frequency of pay period, and filing status and number of dependents. It will take you about 10 minutes to complete but WELL worth the time.
